

Loves Life, Saves Lives, Every Day

Three Generations of Fighting Fires

Most people visiting our facility probably wouldn't notice Brian Edwards. As a maintenance worker he goes about his work at Colorado Plains Medical Center in a quiet, behind-the-scenes manner, making sure that equipment is working properly and that the building is well maintained exceeding rigorous safety and quality JACHO standards. What people don't realize is that Brian has spent countless volunteer hours during the past 18 years as a Fort Morgan Volunteer Fireman, displaying that same concern for safety for the residents of Morgan County. As a fireman, he is often involved in a rescue or is a first responder at an accident. His concern for those affected by the accident lasts long after they are brought to the hospital. In fact, it's not unusual to find Brian stopping by a patient's room at a later date to check on their well-being. For Brian, it's a personal philosophy he grew up with. His father and grandfather were both volunteer fireman for more than a combined 49 years in Fort Morgan and taught Brian the importance of civic contribution to improve and help the lives of others in their community.

Our employees see their work at Colorado Plains Medical Center more than just a job. It is a commitment to the community they live in. For Brian and our 250 employees, compassion and caring are powerful doses of medicine. They love life and continue to save lives every day!
